UBC JOURNEYMEN: BUILDING LEADERSHIP FOR A STRONG FUTURE

Who is Eligible?

The UBC Journeymen: Building Leadership for a Strong Future program is intended to focus on the “Heavy Hitters” in the field, those journeymen who have the ability and willingness to influence others. Participants may also be recommended for the program by Council Business Representatives, Staff, Foremen, and contractors. Participants of this program must be UBC members in good standing, have journey-level status, and not be current staff of any related entity. Candidates for this program are those who work regularly and who are leaders on the jobsite. They must also be motivated, willing, and able to attend the training.

The UBC actively promotes a constructive culture on the jobsite, where members value and motivate one another to achieve their highest potential and ensure maximum productivity. In this course, journeymen develop leadership, mentoring, coaching, and communication skills. These journeymen leaders help secure the Brotherhood’s future by learning to engage with newer members and leading by example, all while promoting positive work environments and productivity on the job. Both participants and their supporting contractors benefit by participating in the UBC Journeymen Leadership training program.
