A newsletter of ideas for UBC Sisters
Committees to use to be more effective

Recruitment - Start young and stay strong

Introducing young women to the trades is a great way to create a pipeline for women carpenters. That's what the New England Regional Council is proving with the Massachusetts Girls In Trades (MAGIT) organization. Having started a few years ago, the organization is expanding. They are even recruiting student graduates to advocate for women in non-traditional careers. Check out their article and pictures.

Other examples of recruitment abound in this newsletter – committees are connecting with organizations like Apprenticeship & Non-traditional Employment for Women (ANEW) and recruiting at JATC events. Of course, the Industrial Council always does outreach, centering their recruitment efforts on monthly interactions with newly-hired workers.

This month, we also have a new SIB Chair – Maria Robles has taken the helm at the Central South Regional Council. She is excited about her new role and ready to work with fellow Sisters on goals.

We welcome Maria and thank everyone for their recruitment efforts.

In Solidarity,

Wonderful Canada!

Eastern District

In the New England Regional Council, Boston and Western Massachusetts are making great strides in encouraging young women to consider a career in the trades. One successful approach involves working with the Girls In Trades (GIT) organization, which includes girls from Career & Technical Education (CTE) schools.

New England Sisters spearheaded the creation of the Massachusetts Girls In Trades (MAGIT) chapter, with the goal of building a more comprehensive pipeline between CTE schools and NERC apprenticeship programs. Sisters have various events planned for 2017, with SIB Chairs Liz Skidmore and Lisa Clauson playing big roles.

Below are some recent MAGIT events:

- Sisters attended a “partners celebration” event that recognized organizations involved in helping homeless mothers find childcare.

Awesome Boston and Western Massachusetts!

In the Northeast Regional Council, the New Jersey & New York State SIB Committee remained focused on recruitment, but they also took time to network and learn at the recent Women In Leadership Development (WILD) conference. This year, 29 Sisters attended and one of the guest speakers was Executive Secretary Treasurer John Ballantyne.

Sisters networked with union leaders, educators, and authors. They also engaged in learning around organizing, membership, and right-to-work laws.

Midwestern & Southern Districts

The Central South SIB Committee has a new chair, Maria Robles, who is busy working with Sisters to set goals and establish a direction for the committee. Maria also attended a women's conference David Barron, where they encouraged participants to consider careers as Union Carpenters.

In February, they met at a restaurant after the Union meeting to discuss new ideas. They also exchanged contact information for further communications.

Welcome Maria!

SIB Committees in the Indiana, Kentucky, & Ohio Regional Council focused on recruitment, education, and the community.

- Cleveland Ohio SIB Committee – Locals 435 & 373: Sisters are partnering with Mobility Access. This company visits houses and makes them ADA compliant.

In the North Central States Regional Council, the Minnesota SIB Committee concentrated on recruitment and politics. Several Sisters attended the second annual Soar Women's Empowerment Summit in Milwaukee, Wisconsin from February 24 – 25, 2017. The Summit is a global market conference for women around the world that emphasizes “women supporting women.” While there, Sisters promoted women in the trades, distributing recruitment materials and discussing job opportunities.

Sisters also participated in a “Day on the Hill” Political event, which provides a way to influence legislative issues. While there, Sisters talked to staffers and other decision makers; highlighting issues that affect Union workers.
